the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 5.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1999, compared with 4.5 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of women. One reason is that the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. The public sector has grown from 15% of the economy in 1980 to 25% in 1999. This has led to an increase in the number of people employed in the public sector.

Another reason why the public sector has become an important employer of women is that it has become a more important part of the social safety net. The public sector has become responsible for a larger share of the social security system, and this has led to an increase in the number of people employed in the public sector.

A third reason why the public sector has become an important employer of women is that it has become a more important part of the economy. The public sector has grown from 15% of the economy in 1980 to 25% in 1999. This has led to an increase in the number of people employed in the public sector.
